

How can we improve mental health treatment?

A conversation with experts, for families.

Join The Bee's Dan Morain and three California experts to explore the challenges faced by families trying to help loved ones with mental illness. How can communities find necessary resources? How can we deal with the shortage of available psychiatric beds for treatment? Morain, The Bee's editorial page editor, will moderate the discussion and solicit audience questions.

Our Panel of Experts

Dr. Aimee Moulin, UC Davis

Associate Professor of Emergency Medicine, Assistant Residency Program Director and Coordinator of Intern Rotations at UC Davis.

Dr. Ken Wells, UCLA

Director of the Semel Institute Center for Health Services and Society and Co-Director of the California Behavioral Health Center of Excellence and Robert Wood Johnson Clinical Scholars Program at UCLA.

Darrell Steinberg

Mayor of Sacramento and founder of the Steinberg Institute for advancing mental health policy and inspiring leadership.

Dan Morain
Moderator

How can we improve mental health treatment?

Wed., May 10 @ 6 p.m.

The Sacramento Bee
2100 Q St., Sacramento
Free parking

A ticket is required for this event.
Limited space. Order today.
Buy tickets online at:
sacbee.com/events

Join the conversation May 10

THE SACRAMENTO BEE
Stay Connected >> sacbee.com

This event is presented in partnership with the University of California Center Sacramento